

Gilmore devoted his life to the 22nd Regiment Band, 76

Allentown Band (Pa.) had only twenty-five players, 81

Famous Stonewall Brigade Band, Staunton, Va., organized in 1845, 84, 85

Theodore Thomas had presented a long series of concerts at the Central Park Garden, 91

"Jules Levy—the greatest cornet player living," 92

Levy—"the world's greatest cornet player ALL THE TIME," 102

Walter Emerson of Boston, a finished artist, 115

Signor Liberati shared billing with Levy, 116

Signor Carlo Alberto Cappa was eminently well fitted to conduct, 119

Fred Weldon was prominent as bandmaster of the 2nd Regiment of Illinois, 123

The Alexander Band of Wilkes-Barre, 124

Gilmore became a heavy drinker before his death, 137

David W. Reeves became conductor of the 22nd after Gilmore died, 140

E. A. Lefebvre, greatest saxophone soloist of all time, 141

Sousa's boyish face was camouflaged by a black beard, 143

Bands of America

Nineteen ex-Gilmore stars were enrolled in Sousa's second band in 1893.

CULVER SERVICE

Bands of America

BY

H. W.
Schwartz

DOUBLEDAY
& COMPANY,
INC.
GARDEN CITY
N.Y.
1957

722
3334

Library of Congress Catalog Card Number 57-6697

Copyright © 1957, by H. W. Schwartz

All Rights Reserved

Printed in the United States of America

Designed by Diana Klemin

First Edition

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Much of the material used in this book was secured during the period 1935 to 1941. At that time there were no books on the subject except Sousa's Marching Along. Subsequently several books on bands have been published, most important of which are A History of Military Music in America, by William Carter White (1944), and Irish Orpheus, by Marwood Darlington (1950).

Although a substantial amount of material in these two books was already in my notes, they have been helpful to me, and I wish to make full acknowledgment.

Various libraries, from Boston to San Francisco, have made old newspaper files, magazines, music programs, and illustrations available to me, but mention for special help should be made of the Boston Public Library, the New York Public Library, and the Newberry Library of Chicago.

I would like to make personal mention of Miss Elizabeth Baughman, reference librarian of the Chicago Historical Society, for research assistance on T. P. Brooke; of Mr. John F. Majeski, Jr., editor of The Music Trades and of Musical America, for research assistance on P. S. Gilmore; and of Mr. Eugene Slick, editor of the Sousa Band Fraternal Society News, for making available to me the complete file of this valuable publication.

H. W. Schwartz

San Francisco, Calif.
March 1956

CARNEGIE INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY LIBRARY

APR 5 1957

CONTENTS

- 1 Monsieur Jullien Rings Up the Curtain, 15
- 2 Patrick S. Gilmore, the "Eager Beaver," 31
- 3 The "Bigger and Better" Ague Strikes Gilmore, 49
- 4 Gilmore and the 22nd Regiment Band, 76
- 5 Gilmore, Madison Square Garden Fight Promoter, 102
- 6 Gilmore's Most Productive Years, 119
- 7 Sousa Establishes His Business Band, 143
- 8 Liberati, Innes and Brooke Start Bands, 168

- 9 Sousa Makes Four Tours of Europe, 188
- 10 Creatore Starts Italian-Band Vogue, 212
- 11 Brooke, Innes and Kryl, 224
- 12 Pryor, Conway and Sweet Launch Bands, 237
- 13 Sousa World Tour and World War I, 251
- 14 "Twilight of the Gods," 269
- 15 The Sousa Saga, 284
- 16 Epilogue by the Goldman Band, 308

Index, 311

ILLUSTRATIONS

Nineteen ex-Gilmore stars were enrolled in Sousa's second band, Frontispiece

Monsieur Jullien "a splendid, bold, dazingly successful humbug," 15

Full sideburns and chin-tuft whiskers made Gilmore appear older, 31

Ned Kendall was the "Paul Bunyan of New England," 37

Boston Brass Band in 1851, 42

The National Peace Jubilee rocked the rafters of the vast coliseum, 49

Two thousand musicians were placed in the hands of J. Thomas Baldwin, 70

The volcanic monster started to erupt on June 17, 1872, 72

Finally, on July 4, all was quiet . . . the World Peace Jubilee had ended, 73